

COURSE SYLLABUS AND OUTLINE: DRINKING COFFEE ELSEWHERE
COLLECTION OF 8 SHORT STORIES- WRITTEN BY ZZ PACKER

Teacher: L. Rosenstein

Summer Remote Teaching

Email: lrosens@schools.nyc.gov

Period 2

Course Overview: This course is devoted to helping students improve their skills as readers, writers, and thinkers, as well as expose them to important literature from a variety of genre. Students will focus on 11 essential skills to reach these goals below. Each of these skills is grouped into the categories of writing, reading, communication, or life skills.

Goals:

Writing: content, organization, style, conventions, writing process

Reading: comprehension, critical reading, reading process

Communication: communication, public speaking

Life Skills: work completion, engaged participation, goal setting

Course Expectations: The student will demonstrate the ability to:

- read and respond at home to text

- expand understanding of the situations and circumstances through reading

- show thinking in their writing

- share their personality through their voice

Course Materials: Ipads, Computers, Smart Phones

Course Text: Literature- Drinking Coffee Elsewhere

Website: Common Lit for paired assignments

Grading:

Classwork: might include all work begun and/or completed in a Google Meet, discussions, group activities

Homework: might include all work completed outside of Google Meet, including readings, and assignments

Grading Scale- Pass NX-incomplete course work

Teacher's Expectations:

- be willing to work

- take an academic risk and try out new skills even when you feel unsure

- participate in activities